

Tracey would like you to have complete confidence in her service when you arrange a reading. Therefore, she will refund the fee if you feel, after the initial impressions that a true connection has not been made with your animal friend. This policy only applies at the initial stage of first impressions. If you accept the validity of the first impressions, then the communication will proceed, for which there is no refund.